ators' AssociationTERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 4 (UP)— A meeting of the executive boards of the Indiana Coal Operators' association and District 11, United Mine workers of America, scheduled for Friday, has been postponed until Monday, according to an announcement today.The meeting is for the purpose of settling disputes over working conditions not covered under contract, settling in disputes over working conditions and a talk on various routine matters.Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, president of the Indiana Coal Operators' association, who now handle the duties of the proposed arbitrator, was in Terre Haute yesterday and made a visit to the West End mines, the announcement said.The purpose of Dr. Oxnam's visit, it was explained, was to view the workings of the new type cutting machines now in use. The new type machines are capable of doing the work of four of the older machines and a disagreement between miners and operators has arisen over whether one crew that operated the old machines should run the new machine or the other three crews go without work, or the work on the new machine be divided amongst the four crews.All Demand

TO BE ASKED IN TORCH
MYSTERYINDIANAPOLIS, June 4 (UP)— Attorney of Harold Herbert Schroeder, 36, Mobile, Ala., business man, murder charge, will be asked of Marion county grand jury by Sheriff George Winkler.Leaving Mobile, Ala., last night after investigation of the torch murder on a road near Indianapolis last Saturday, Sheriff Winkler was en route home by train to present evidence to prosecuting Attorney Judson Clark.Evidence justifies indictment of Schroeder on a murder charge and conspiracy to defraud insurance companies, Sheriff Winkler said.
Meanwhile Indianapolis police continued futile efforts to identify the murdered body of a man found in Schroeder's blazing auto.Belief that the man may have been a homeless beggar seen at the speedway races last Friday, who has been missing since, was held by investigators.Reconstructing the crime, investigators pointed out that Schroeder's car was seen near the scene of the murder eight hours before Jack Allen and Miss Ruby Blue discovered the body.Allen and Miss Blue gave a ride to the city to a man they believed to be a hitch hiker, whom authorities now are convinced was Schroeder.
He carried a blanket similar to the one Schroeder had in his car.Famous Crater

VESUVIUS REPORTED
AT NAPLESNAPLES, Italy, June 4 (UP)—Mt.
Vesuvius was active again today, causing explosions and frequent eruptions of incandescent cinders frightened the countryside.
The fiery display was visible over a wide radius through the night and during the early hours today. Prof.
Alessandro Malladra, director of the Vesuvian observatory, suggested immediate construction of breastworks to prevent the flow of lava outside "Hell Valley." The "valley" is a gorge often in the path of the lava stream as it flows to the southeast.Mrs. Cushman Hoke of Angola and Mrs. Buford Gill of Chicago, will be the commencement guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shop-p and other relatives here.SEEKS $2,600 IN SUIT ON TWO UNPAID NOTESA total demand of $2,600 is made by Ray Singer against Greely R.
Huffman, R. E. Huffman and Curtis J. Craft, in a complaint on notes in two paragraphs, filed in the Putnam Circuit court Wednesday morning.In the first paragraph, the plaintiff alleges that on September 8, 1925, the defendants by their promissory note promised to pay to the Island Gravel Company the sum of $901.34. On said note there are credits amounting to $550. The plaintiff alleges that the Gravel Company, for value received, endorsed said note to the plaintiff. A demand of $1,200 is made on this note.The second paragraph is on a note of $901.34 executed and endorsed to the plaintiff in the same manner, which is alleged to be totally unpaid.
A demand of $1,400 is made in this paragraph.Both notes are payable at the Freedom Bank, S. W. Lee is attorney for the plaintiff.

GREENCASTLEMAIL PLANE FORMERLY USED BY AIR HERO BROUGHT
BY MUNCIE AVIATORA government mail plane formerly flown by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh trans-Atlantic air hero, visited Greencastle Tuesday to take up a few local people.The ship was brought here by O. L.
Grimes, owner of the Muncie airport, and instructor of Walter Gardner, local aviation pupil. Mr. Grimes now owns the plane made famous thru its former pilot.The plane landed at the new government airport, southwest of Greencastle, and while here took up Mrs.
Walter Gardner, Otis Gardner, W. E.
Bausman and Paul Garl, for trips over the city.Quite a bit of fun was had at the expense of Mr. Bausman who thought he had lost his cap while in the air.
When the headgear was returned to him later with a story that it had been found south of town, Mr. Bausman accepted the story and cap. It was said Mr. Bausman had left his cap at Gardner Bros. ice plant but in his excitement at taking an air ride had forgotten this and thought he lost it while in the air.Several of those taken up yesterday had never been up in a plane before.

Several Towns Destroyed As Forest Fires Sweep New Territory With Renewed FuryWINNIPEG, Man., June 4 (UP)— Forest fires swept new areas of timberland with renewed fury today as increasing winds removed the temporary check brought by light rains in the past 24 hours.Raging in a score of widely separated sections of virgin timber of the Canadian Northwest, the flames destroyed thousands of acres of virgin timber.Five or more persons were believed to have perished, several farm settlements and small logging camps were burned and two towns were threatened with destruction.Refugees who found their way to safety reported relatives and friends missing and it was feared the final death toll might be high. Many of the outlying residents told of narrow escapes from death when they remained too long in the danger zone, fighting the flames which destroyed their homes.Port Arthur, Ont., and Dymont, Ont., reported that the flames crept up to the very borders of the towns.
Every home in Dymont was evacuated and women and children were taken from Port Arthur, a town of 3,500 on the northwest shore of Lake Superior.The little railroad settlement of Larson, Ont., 80 miles west of Port Arthur, was reported practically destroyed by flames from three sides.
The Canadian National railway depot, section men's dormitory, and three other buildings were said to have been burned.New fires were reported almost hourly and hundreds of rangers and volunteers fought to check the most serious blazes.SEEK IDENTITY OF SUICIDE VICTIM FOUND BY RAILWAYCRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., June 3.—
The body of an unidentified man, was found hanging today from a fence post along the Clover Leaf railroad tracks between New Richman and Wingate. Because of the man's dark complexion he was thought to be a foreigner and apparently about 50 years old.An examination of the clothing failed to reveal his identity. An envelope bearing the address of the Ottawa county sheriff in Michigan was found in one of the pockets. Coroner Gross of Montgomery county, who conducted an investigation, announced the man had committed suicide by hanging.Sell Tickets

ATING CLASS"Skidding," a comedy in three acts by Aurania Rouverol, will be presented in the DePauw Little Theater Friday and Saturday nights of this week as the annual senior class play of the university. The play has been recently released for amateur production, having been on the professional stage since 1928 as the Drama League prize winner of that year.The four principal roles of the play will be carried by Gladys Rohrer as Mrs. Hardy; Robert Orr as Judge Hardy; Ruth Kattman as Aunt Milly; and Robert Small as Andy.Strong secondary parts will be taken by Emma Jean Burke as Marion; Louise Freeland as Estelle; Hardy Campbell, and Robert Kimberlin as Wayne Trenton III. Myra Hardy Wilcox will be portrayed by Josephine Reed.The majority of the cast are veterans on the DePauw stage, all having appeared frequently during the year in Duzer Du productions.Tickets for the play are now on sale at the University Shop and will continue through the week. Admission is 75 cents. Reservations may be made through Robert Small, business manager of the play, or by calling ance.The Spanish War Veterans will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the office of Dr. E. Hawkins.

TWO BODIES FOUND

KENDALLVILLE, Ind., June 4 — Bodies of Miss Emma Menzel, 23, of Kendallville, and Marion Casebeer, 30, of Montpelier, O., were found in a badly decomposed state, in an auto in a woods near Wendallville today by Ronald Gehring, 18.The girl had apparently been struggling and then shot through the heart. Indications were that she had put up a stiff battle.A note believed to have been scrawled by Casebeer, read:
"Girl is Emma Menzel; boy is Marion Casebeer."No other clue to the crime was found, but authorities were working on the theory that Casebeer killed the girl and then committed suicide.
Two empty carbolic acid bottles near the car indicated his method of suicide, but the gun with which the girl was shot was not found.Casebeer quit his job at the City Dairy, Montpelier, a week ago, Monday, and had not been seen since.
He and Miss Menzel had been keeping company for several months, friends of the girl said, and when she disappeared a week ago it was believed they had eloped, although Casebeer was a married man.SWAIM DAMAGE him into his home and locked the door and then gave Swaim a severe beating. Swaim alleges he suffered from nervous shock and other injuries and still is under a doctor's care.Mrs. Swaim is also alleged to have suffered a nervous breakdown as a result of the affair.Clark was fined for assault and battery in circuit court following the alleged assault, when he pleaded guilty.GEO. HOWARD

TRIP TO DETROITGeorge Howard, 27-year old man, apprehended near Morton early Tuesday morning by county officers, when his strange actions alarmed residents, was released from the county jail on Wednesday morning by Sheriff Edward Eiteljorge. Howard inquired the direction to Indianapolis and apparently intended to continue his journey to Detroit.When found under some bushes near Morton the young man said he was enroute from his home in Danville, Ill., to Detroit in search of work. His strange actions at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Gooch resulted in the sheriff being called.When apprehended, Howard appeared befuddled in mind apparently as the result of too much liquor or a drug. He, however, gave the sheriff his address and the names of relatives in this county who said that as far as they know Howard was of good character.The local sheriff also believed that Howard's exhausted condition, when he reached the Gooch home early on Tuesday, may have caused his strange actions.8 Madmen Still today to relieve a band of 200 red-eyed and weary vigilantes in the search for eight inmates of the state hospital for the criminal insane who remained at liberty after yesterday's outbreak, in which 13 escaped.Anxious farmers and townsmen, many of whom had spent a sleepless night fearing for the safety of their families, were relieved to learn that five of the escaped madmen had been captured during the night by possemen.COMMITTEES

directions of the wind at that time.Greencastle Post No. 58 American Legion members, local Boy Scouts, and a few DePauw R. O. T. C. men who are in town, will donate their services under the direction of E. R.
Smith, to patrol the field and supervise parking of automobiles.Appointment of the local committees was at the request of the Air Tour committee which is already making advance arrangements for the tour of the planes over the entire state.The purpose of the tour is to stimulate interest in aviation, keep the people of Indiana informed of the newer types of aviation, promote interest in cities where airports are in process of development, and to display the new features incorporated in twenty-five to thirty planes on the tour.Leaving Indianapolis the Air Tour is expected to visit Columbus and Madison and to make an overnight stop at Evansville. From Evansville the planes will visit Princeton and Vincennes before proceeding to Greencastle. From here the planes will go to Terre Haute for the second over-

DIES OF INJURIES

MATTOON, Ill., June 4 (UP)—
Head and chest injuries received late Monday afternoon by William Francis Perry, 8-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Perry, south of Mattoon, when he was run over by a heavy clod roller, resulted in his death.The boy had climbed up onto the roller and started the horses after A.
C. Gordon, whose farm he was visiting had been called from the fields, when he fell and the roller passed over his body. He never regained consciousness.ACQUAINTANCE BEGUN HERE

TAX PROBLEMG. O. P. LEADERS UNDECIDED ON TAXATION PLANK IN STATE PLATFORM

SESSION OPENS TONIGHT

Nominations For Ticket Next Noember To Be Made During State ConventionINDIANAPOLIS, June 4 (UP)— Republican party leaders wrestled with the taxation problem today, undecided whether to present definite platform suggestions to the state convention which opens tonight, or suggest that the matter be handled lightly pending a report of the state tax survey committee.Numerous suggestions have been received for improving the tax situation, according to State Chairman Elza Rogers, many of which propose taxes on incomes, intangibles, sales taxes, and increase in the gasoline tax. The tax survey committee is expected to report this summer and it was believed that party leaders would suggest the matter be tabled until it has completed its work.Interviews with delegates to the convention today revealed that majority sentiment favored repeal of the state levy and substitution of other forms of taxation. It appeared probable that this would be suggested to the platform committee tonight as a definite plank to be included in the party promises.While the leaders discussed resolutions to be included in the platform, candidates and their friends hovered around the Severin hotel seeking support for nominations that will be made tomorrow.Virtually all candidates had opened headquarters and were active in promotion of their separate causes among delegates who began pouring into the city this morning.Generally, the convention was expected to be a cut and dried proceeding with most of the incumbent state officers slated for re-nomination. The position of Roy P. Wisheart as head of schools still appeared doubtful.
No candidate in the field was believed strong enough to take the position from him, but a dark horse entry might.The race for state treasurer, an office left open by Mrs. Grace Reynolds, has resolved itself into a three-corner affair between Harry Nichols, Madison; Cleb Williams, and Sol Sudranski, Greencastle.

Friendly Union

Business and banking may grow more complex each year, the fundamentals rarely, if ever, change. Personality is still important; character— and all the qualities that go to compose it—is still the basis of every commercial transaction.

The personality and character of our customers and friends is never lost sight of in any of their dealings with this bank. In fact, it has been and always shall be our aim to make every transaction a meeting—a friendly union—between the minds and personalities of our customers and of our officers.

LAUD PUTNAM BOY AS POET IN NEW YORK

GEORGE SCHAFER OF PUTNAMVILLE, WRITES AND INVENTS, ARTICLE STATES

George Schaffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillip Schaffer, who live south of Greencastle near Putnamville, now on a visit with his aunt, Mrs. Anna Cogswell at Albany, New York, recently was interviewed by a reporter for the Sunday Knickerbocker Press in New York. As a result of the interview, the following article, together with a picture of young Schaffer and three of his poems, appeared in the June 1 issue of the paper:

A poet, an inventor and a business "man," these are the talents of a fourteen year old boy.

George Frederick Schaffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillip Schaffer of Greencastle, Ind., is visiting his aunt in Albany, Mrs. Ledyard Cogswell, 389 State street.

For several years he has written to Mrs. Cogswell in rhyme. These manuscripts she has saved to publish some day. But his poetry is not reserved alone for letters. Any subject causes his pen to trace a spontaneous feeling and expression over the pages.

"I have to have inspiration," he said yesterday. "I have to feel the poem, then I just write it."

George started to write last year. It followed a long illness after a severe fall. He is a solemn boy, with large dark blue eyes, revealing occasionally a sudden burst of whimsical humor. And yet he is very much a boy. He was very normal in his reaction to school.

"Oh, it's all right, I guess," he said. "He lives on a farm and thinks he 'might be a farmer some day, if I'm not a banker.' He likes baseball and basketball. 'I don't know whether

I will want to live in the country or the city."

He has invented useful things for the farm, some of his creations being patented now. His first work was on two old tractors, which he and his brother took apart to build one new, and good one.

A collection of Indiana arrowheads which he found in the Indiana fields he has given to the New York state museum.

And not only does George Schaffer write poetry, but he is also well versed in the works of his favorite poets.

"Riley is one of my favorites," he said, "because he writes of the life in Indiana where my home is. And I like Whittier because he is a naturalist and writes about nature. Tennyson is so even. I like his rhythm; and William Cullen Bryant has such deep feeling. I like Longfellow's philosophy of life."

"I think some day I shall get to the top of the ladder," he went on. "My aim in life has five parts. They are to believe in God, to have the right purpose, honest endeavor, to love my neighbor and to do my best."

Some of his poetry, written since he came to Albany, shows a clearness of thought, an apt vocabulary and a sincerity of feeling.

CONTEST TO CLOSE

A very interesting contest of the Sunday School at Fillmore Christian Church will come to a close Friday evening at the church with the serving of a supper and free entertainment for the winning section.

The losing three sections will furnish the supper and entertainment to the winning section.

Each family of the losing sections are requested to furnish sandwiches, one dish of food, two pies, or a cake.

All section members are requested to be present and enjoy the evening.

A. R. Chenoweth, E. R. Bartley, and Charles McGaughey are in Indianapolis tonight attending the opening of the Republican state convention.

Mr. Todd has been promoted to head of the Department of History and Latin for the coming year.

Glenn Wolf, restaurant man of Greencastle, who was found in an unconscious condition on the National road near the Putnam county line early Monday morning with his wrecked car nearby, was reported considerably improved at the Clay County Hospital today. Wolf regained consciousness yesterday afternoon and Dr. Palm is of the opinion that his injuries will soon respond to treatment.—Brazil Times.

RIFLE KILLS BOY

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 4.—Placing the muzzle of a .22 calibre rifle in his mouth to blow out a jammed cartridge, Charles Hise, 12, Terre Haute, was instantly killed when his playmate, Carl Stultz, 16, accidentally pulled the trigger while attempting to operate the extractor.

The shooting occurred along the banks of Lost creek, near the edge of the city, where the boys had been hunting birds. Two other boys, one a brother of Hise and the other a younger brother of Stultz, witnessed the affair.

Stultz, when questioned by police, said he had no home and lived where he could. He said the rifle was given him several weeks ago by a man whose name he did not know. He said his brother, Paul, 14, had been living near Lyford, with a man whose name he did not know.

Son Of Chase Harding Married At Crawfordsville

A charming wedding of the early summer season was celebrated on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Grover Hungate, 1009 west Main street, when their daughter, Miss Edna Hungate became the bride of Robert Bryant Harding, son of Chase Harding, 406 south Walnut street.

The Hungate home was beautifully decorated for the occasion in a profusion of greenery and garden flowers. In the front parlor where the marriage vows were read, the mantle was arranged with palms, ferns and roses and it was in front of this that the young couple stood when they pledged their troth to the single ring service read at two o'clock by Rev. Guy O. Carpenter, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church in the presence of the immediate families.—Crawfordsville Journal-Review.

Chef "Duny" Miles Enters 30th Year Feeding Phi Psis

Mr. Miles Has Been The Friend And Generous Helper Of Two Generations.

A recent Phi Kappa Psi fraternity publication carried the following article:

Mr. Eunice Miles, intimately known as Duny to the last two generations of Phi Psis in Indiana Alpha, still reigns over the utensils in the Phi Psi kitchen. Next year will be Duny's thirtieth year as food dispenser to his boys, and, as Mr. Miles says, those thirty years have been pleasant and full of many wonderful friendships.

The cheery voice of Duny greets everyone in the morning and during the day helps many of the boys over a tight place. As freshmen you learn to know Mr. Miles as the best friend and helper you have. Always quiet and efficient, he helps many of the boys from otherwise inevitable punishment.

After the freshman year you find Duny not only looking out for the wearers of the green but also having the interest of the entire chapter at heart. Duny's immense store of knowledge has proven helpful to practically everyone with whom he associates for the one reason that he is so generous with it.

Undoubtedly your association with Duny is one which you will prize and remember long after you leave college. This is undeniably shown by the alumni when visiting the chapter. One of the first things a man does when he comes back to Indiana Alpha is to go to the kitchen and talk over old times with Duny. At such a time you marvel at his memory, for it is remarkable that he remembers practically every brother who has been in the chapter the last thirty years. Duny has seen fathers and sons go through the college course and he probably knows much more about the fraternity than many of the brothers.

Mr. Miles follows the activities of his Indiana Alpha boys after they leave the school, and we are proud to say that we have had not only "the best cook" but also "the finest man" in the Phi Psi kitchen for the last twenty-nine years.

BRIEFS ON "WAR IS WAR"

This book written by Ex-Private X went through three printings—15,000 copies—before publication in England. R. C. Sheriff, author of "Journey's End": This is the English "All Quiet," but more outspoken and uncompromising, and carrying greater conviction as a human document. This is a book of which no one, militarist or pacifist could say, "it isn't true." And no one could find it anything but enthralling.

Ex-Private X has come the nearest of anyone I have read to giving the life, experiences, feelings, and miseries of the armed civilian in the line in "War Is War." He was in the two worst shows of the whole War on our front—Passchendaele and March, 1918—and for vividness and accuracy I think his account are absolutely first-rate.

This alert, rapid narrative has the bitterness, the grimness, the desolation of what our lives were. The degradation of war, its beastliness, its complete suppression of all individuality to the ruthless purpose of a great murder-machine, are here rendered truthfully.

I would give "War Is War" to my son, if I had one, and I shouldn't be afraid that it would make him a Jingo. In fact, I suggest to all infantry privates that when Bobby says brightly: "What did you do in the Great War, Daddy?" they hand him a copy of "War Is War" and say "That's What I did; and, by the way, that's what they did to me."

DEPAUW MUSIC SCHOOL GRAD DIRECTS HIGH SCHOOL OPERA

Several residents of Putnam county and students of DePauw will be interested in this article concerning a musical production directed by Frederick Farmer, a graduate of the DePauw school of music in '29, in Rising Sun, Maryland. The article was published by the Midland Journal, and several other papers of Cecil county, Maryland. In part it reads:

"A well filled house greeted the presentation of the High School Opera on Tuesday evening at the Rising Sun Town hall. 'The Captain of Plymouth' was the title of the production and a cast of fifty-four high school pupils, under the direction of Frederick Farmer, instructor of music in the school, with Mrs. John Wilson at the piano, presented the difficult comic opera in a manner that won them applause and praise from the audience, and reflected very great credit upon Mr. Farmer and those who assisted him in the training, which was no small task.

The production was nicely costumed, in the period it was supposed to represent and the stage settings were also effective.

"The choruses were especially well rendered. In fact, every member of the cast did so well as to deserve unstinted praise."

HEEDS STATE TICKET

Otto G. Fifield, selected by the Republican tState convention at Indianapolis to head the party's ticket in 1930 campaign, as candidate for Secretary of State, is a native Indian and holder of a number of athletic honors gained while a student at Purdue university.

Mr. Fifield now is serving the second year of his first term as Secretary of State, and the State convention, in renominating him for a second term, followed a custom of years standing of returning state officers who have made records.

Mr. Fifield was born on a farm in LaPorte county, November 9, 1885. His common and high school education were received in the public schools of Lake county and the Crown Point high school, after which he entered Purdue university to study civil and sanitary engineering. During his college years he was captain of the varsity track team, and held the track record at Purdue university and the University of Illinois in the high hurdles. He was a member of the Chicago Athletic association track team, and while running for them tied the world's record on the sixty yard hurdles. He was graduated from Purdue in 1909.

After his graduation from college Mr. Fifield was employed by the Chicago sanitary district for two years, and became interested in the reclamation and farming of land along the Kankakee river. This was the beginning of his farm career, and today he owns a large farm in southern Lake county, where he raises large crops of corn and feeds several carload of cattle and hogs each year.

Mr. Fifield's name is not unknown in either Lake county or Indiana in Republican politics. Since the days of his youth he has been interested in politics. Since the days of his youth he has been interested in politics, beginning as a Precinct Committeeman in the famous campaign of 1912. In 1916 he was made vice president of the Lake county central committee, and in the elections of 1918 and 1920 he was sent to the General Assembly from Lake county as a member of the House of Representatives. Former Governor James P. Goodrich selected him as a member of the budget committee, or legislative visiting committee, as it was known then, in 1920, and by virtue of that selection, Mr. Fifield was made majority floor leader in the session of 1921. In the election of 1922, the people of Lake county selected Mr. Fifield for their county treasurer, and re-elected him in 1924.

He became a candidate for Secretary of State in 1928, and with the solid backing of the Tenth District, his nomination was made in 1928 convention by acclamation.

Mr. Fifield maintains his home at Crown Point. He is married and father of four children.

The Secretary of State has been active in the civic, business and fraternal life of Lake county and Northern Indiana. He is President of the Independence Hill Realty Company in Crown Point, and President of the Condit-Fifield Corporation in Gary and Hammond. He operates a large elevator at Range Line, Indiana. He is a member of the Masonic order at Crown Point, the Consistory at Fort Wayne, the Shrine at Hammond and the Elks Lodge of Gary.

NO FLOWERS AT JAIL

INDIANAPOLIS, June 2 (UP)—Jail prisoners in Indianapolis will look out on a dreary world this summer.

The city park board has refused to provide flowers for the jail yard flower beds this year. Plants have been provided for thirty-nine years, Sheriff George Winkler said today.

Park board members said gifts of plants are being reduced generally to permit placing more flowered parks, the jail yard flower beds have been spared for the flowers, but no plants are available.

There will be a round dance at Moose Hall, Thursday, June 5th. 4-2t.

CANNON STILL DEFIANT

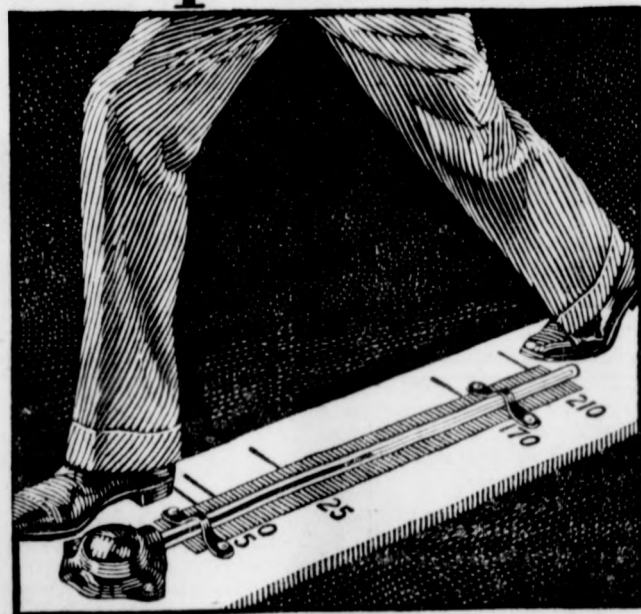

WASHINGTON, June 4 (UP)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., prohibition leader in the Methodist Episcopal church, South, persisted today in his refusal to divulge his anti-Smith activities in the 1928 presidential campaign.

The examiner, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Dem., Mont., noted that a quorum was not present, told Cannon the committee could not proceed at this time and terminated his line of inquiry.

New ISO-VIS lubricates properly at all engine temperatures. Some oils—satisfactory at low temperatures—do not stand up under intense heat. Others that are heat resisting refuse to flow in cold weather. New Iso-V is strident from one end of the thermometer to the other.

TO GET a motor oil that would stand up under sizzling heat and yet flow freely in cold weather, our engineers after long research, developed a new refining process. New Iso-Vis is a Wholly Distilled Oil. No undistilled parts of the crude have to be added to give it body as is the case with most oils. Only in March was it put on the market . . . after six months of the most careful checking.

Besides its heat and cold resisting feature, this improved oil deposits far less carbon than most oils. And by a special patented process, New Iso-Vis is prepared so that it will not thin out in your crankcase.

New Iso-Vis will add miles to the life of your car. Your engine can be drained, flushed and filled with New Iso-Vis at any Standard Oil dealer or service station.

DESPONDENT WAR VETERAN ENDS LIFE, CRAWFORDSVILLE

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. June 4.—Paul Carroll, 33, son of Michael Carroll, 409 west Main street, took his own life by shooting himself with a revolver shortly before 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at his home while in a fit of despondency over his health. Mr. Carroll, an overseas veteran of the World War, has been in ill health for the past five years, suffering from tuberculosis which he contracted while serving in the army.

Mr. Carroll had eaten his noon meal as usual with his father, his aunt, Miss Margaret Carroll, and his uncle, Thomas Carroll, and retired to his room on the second floor. Shortly before one o'clock, a report sounding like a revolver shot was heard, but his father, who was sitting on the front porch, thought the noise was caused by the backfiring of an automobile engine in a garage in the rear of his home.

Thomas Carroll, who thought the noise was too loud for an engine, went upstairs to investigate. When he pushed open the door of his nephew's room, he found him on the bed with a bullet hole in his right temple and a 32-calibre revolver by his side. A physician was summoned immediately, but upon his arrival, he pronounced the death instantaneous.

PRAISES OIL

Disembarking from the Graf Zeppelin when the mighty ship of the air arrived at Lakehurst, N. J. today, Dr. Hugo Eckener, its commander, was questioned at some length upon the performance of the craft on the trip from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Seville, Spain, Buenos Aires, South America, and the United States. Among other things the Commander was enthusiastic about Veedel Motor Oil, product of the Tide Water Oil Company, which was used to lubricate the great Maybach engines of the Graf on this trip as on all the other record breaking cruises of the dirigible.

"Veedel performed as perfectly at the Equator as it did in the sub-Arctic" exclaimed Dr. Eckener. "We had absolutely no lubrication trouble while the Graf was battling its way across the stormy areas in the South American regions where a craft like ours had never before penetrated with such a record. I shall certainly specify Veedel for such future voyages as the Graf Zeppelin may make. Apparently extreme heat and cold conditions have had no bad effects on such a lubricant. Since the Zeppelin's Maybach engines were overhauled and inspected just prior to the South American cruise, they have run for two hundred and five flying hours, and the engineers report that they are in as perfect condition as they were when we left Friedrichshafen."

VONCASTLE

"The Love Racket" Opens Tonight With Excellent Cast and Plot
"The Love Racket," which is playing today and Thursday at the Voncastles Theater, could be used as Exhibit A in the argument that the "talkies" have all the stage as an entertainment medium—and more.

For the first time this writer has become convinced that the flesh-and-blood dramatic medium is completely outclassed.

Dorothy Mackaill stars in the title role of this First National and Vitaphone cinematization of Bernard K. Barnes' stage play, "The Woman on the Jury," which stands with "Madame X" as perhaps the most powerful dramatic offering produced in modern times. And in this picture Miss Mackaill does the seemingly impossible by achieving even greater realism and power in a characterization than she displayed in "His Captive Woman."

With Miss Mackaill is a group of exceptionally fine stage and film actors. Sidney Blackmer, one of Broadway's idols, shows to great advantage in this, his second film. Alice Day, Myrtle Stedman, Edmund Burns, Edwards Davis, Martha Mattox, Edith Yorke and others give performances of rare excellence.

Added to the bill tonight and Thursday will be an all-talking Charley Chase comedy, "Stepping Out" and "The October Horoscope."

CONCERNING TAXES

INDIANAPOLIS, June 4 (UP)—An income tax law that would produce $15,000,000 annually was proposed to the state tax survey committee today as being a means of taking a forward step in the solution of Indiana's taxation problem.

John Lawyer, Chicago attorney representing the Insull interests, made the suggestions at a hearing in the statehouse.

The meeting was the fourth of a series of public discussions on recommendations for improvements in the taxing system, and will continue to-tomorrow.

"The income tax field already is well taken up by the federal government," Lawyer said, "but a carefully adjusted state law could be created that would magnify the burden excessively."

"The amount that can be raised by the income tax is limited by the fact that the federal government imposes an annual burden of approximately $25,000,000 on Indiana incomes, and by the amount of taxable income which may be made to bear the burden. The reports available from the federal income tax sources show a net taxable income in Indiana of about $500,000,000."

"A state law imposing an average rate of 3 per cent could be passed that would produce approximately $15,000,000."

Lawyer suggested that the following exemptions be included in the law: $1,000 for a single man; $2,000 for the head of a family; $200 for each dependent under 18 years of age.

A list of intangibles also was suggested by Lawyer as a possible solution.

"In equalities in the present taxing system are laid largely to the fact that intangibles generally escape taxation," he said. "This could be remedied by providing an enforceable tax law."

"Such a law would add approximately $1,000,000,000 worth of property to the tax duplicates in two years."

"Both the income tax law and intangible tax law would require constitutional amendments before they were in working order."

"If an income tax law were created, placing the levy at 4 mills on the dollar, approximately $4,000,000 would be added to the state's revenue. True, if the intangibles were taxed at the same rate as tangibles the revenue produced would probably be six times as much. But to tax them at a lower rate would be better than the present plan whereby intangibles in fact dodge the burden."

FORMER INMATE CHARGES

MAYOR WITH EMBEZZLEMENT
CONNEVILLE, Ind., June 3.—No date has been set for the arraignment in circuit court of A. Carl Carter, former mayor here, who is charged with embezzlement in two affidavits signed by Roy Eshelman. Carter, who has provided $1,500 bond, is charged with embezzlement of $130 which he is said to have received from Eshelman while acting as judge of the city court. Eshelman was the defendant in city court in June, 1928, when he was sentenced to ninety days on the State Farm and fined $130, including costs, which, he alleges, he paid. Carter is charged with converting the money to his own use.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., June 4 (UP).—Governor Harry G. Leslie, addressing a meeting of the Huntington organization of the Hoosier State Automobile Association, digressed from his subject of highways—long enough to criticize Indiana university students who

Commenting on the campaign of some students against compulsory military training at the university, the governor said the state pays two-thirds of the tuition cost for each, and remarked that any student not satisfied with conditions at the school should leave.

Electric lighting of state highways, and barring heavy hauling from them are developments the governor predicted within the next few years.

SYNOPSIS

Fair-skinned Dawn, mystery girl of the African tribe in British East Africa. Protectorate becomes the mystic bride of the black god Malungu. The man she loves, Tom Allen, young plantation owner, learns the secret of her whiteness. When the Germans seize the British territory, Tom is transported to England, at the instigation of Shep, shipwrecking bully, who wants to be free to advance his sinister designs on Dawn. Tom resists and is with the colonial army that recaptures, without bloodshed, the British territory. Dawn has been fighting Shep off; he threatens to expose her to the natives, as a white girl.

INSTALLMENT TWENTY-FOUR

"Quick! Get in here in the jungle!" he snapped.
Dawn thought quickly. She reasoned that if Shep was eager to escape, the approaching men were unfriendly to him, therefore men she could trust.
"No," she said.
He drew his whip menacingly, but the nearness of the singing voices restrained his impulse to send it whining about her ears. He repeated his command, but in a voice so low it was almost gentle. Dawn remained adamant. Shep stepped in front of her.
"All right," he said, between clenched teeth. "We stays, but you for Malungu. Any man or god who shields that girl from the gaze of other men is what I call nobody's fool."

He issued a brief order to proceed to the garrison. He attempted to engage Shep in light conversation en route, but Shep rewarded these attempts with unfriendly growls.

"I really don't know," commented the officer, "how the Germans ever permitted you to run loose in these jungles. You strike me as being an exceptionally disagreeable man."

Shep's eyes blazed anger. "In the jungle," he cried, "no English would take me prisoner. De natives wouldn't stand for it. I see more powerful dan Malungu. I see de king and I gets what I wants."

"A charming way to be situated," admitted the sergeant, Lieutenant. "But for the time being, I'd try to adjust myself to a little self-denial. For you see, if you or your fellow prisoners cut any capers that personally displease me, I'll uproot the tallest tree in sight and spank you with it."

"When I tells Captain Eric you arrested his sergeant, you am goin' to talk different," Shep predicted.

"The ex-commander of the post is an admirable fellow, but hardly one to rush to, just now, for anything in the way of political aid. You see, Great Britain, as represented in small part by myself, is, as the Americans put it, very much the works."

That information sobered Shep. Though he suspected that these British were in command of the settlement, he had clung to a hope that they were a detail of prisoners in the service of Captain Eric. Craftily, he determined on a switch of allegiance.

"The glad," he said after a short silence, "de British am in command. Before de Germans came I was de best friend the English folks had in de settlement."

The officer laughed. "It might be sensible to mention as much to the colonel," he advised Shep. "He's a charitable soul and may believe you. But as for me, I should like to spend my first furlough chasing you through these jungles."

But Shep only smiled. He had faith in a few final tricks.

When Colonel Judson, stripped Shep of his sergeant's chevrons and whip, and simultaneously all his power, he fancied himself free of all trouble with the natives. Indeed, he issued a friendly invitation to Captain Eric, now a prisoner in civilian clothes, to consider himself practically a free man.

"There's no sense, really, in carrying on in this abominable place as though the safety of the world depended on it," he said. "The world is unhappy enough, and we all get lonesome. Will this drought never end?"

Eric grew thoughtful. "I gladly accept your kindness, Colonel Judson," he said, "but now that I'm a prisoner of war—"

"Don't consider yourself a prisoner of war, my friend."

"Ah, but technically, I am."

"Not in my presence."

"Then," requested Eric, "may I presume to offer a suggestion?"

"At any moment, sir," Judson assured him.

Earnestly, Eric addressed the British officer. "It is my suggestion that you impose a stricter discipline on everybody, soldiers and prisoners alike. Once the natives get the feeling that you are a kindly and tolerant man they will lose their fear of you."

"But my good Eric," expostulated Judson, "I do not wish the black beggars to fear me."

"You must," counseled the German. "Fear is the only god they know. Once they realize there are no harsh measures to restrict them they will become insolent—even dangerous. They will flout all discipline. So many are dying."

The two were interrupted at that moment by the arrival of Major Milford, the medical officer. He was accompanied by Blink, now restored to more presentable costume by reason of his freedom. Both appeared deeply concerned about something. The medical officer was the first to speak.

"These obstinate natives, sir," he told Colonel Judson, "are utterly impossible. One by one they refuse all medical attention—and persist in dying in herds."

"It is something, we can't very well help. Major Milford," Judson answered, "We can't force them to accept our treatment."

"I'm aware of that, sir," admitted the physician, "but unless some sort of military law is imposed, there is likely to be grave trouble."

"In what way, doctor?" he held up a hand for silence. "That," he said.

From the distance came the mournful beat of the tom-tom. The Colonel recognizing its significance, remained silent for a few moments. "Funeral?" he inquired.

"Two of them," said Blink. "Fourth today."

Dawn is forced to follow Shep, the whipman.

Weed Menace Is Fought By Spray

NEED OF CANADIAN THISTLE ERADICATION IS POINTED OUT BY EXPERT

Two demonstrations, one at the east edge of Greencastle on the Miss Laura Ammerman lot, and the other on the Marsteller farm in Russell township, showing the importance and method of eradicating Canada thistle and quack grass, were held yesterday under the supervision of O. C. Lee of Purdue university.

Canadian thistle is becoming an increasing farm menace in Indiana, and has in some instances claimed whole fields of thirty to forty acres. The infestation is worse in the northern part of Putnam County, than in the southern sections.

Mr. Lee pointed out that there is no cultural method of controlling the thistle, and that a spray of aldicide or sodium chlorate, is the most potent method to eradicate the plant. Cultivation only settles the roots of the plant over a wider area.

Aldicide is a compound handled by the local Farm Bureau, while sodium chlorate is a stronger chemical, but very explosive. The first solution is mixed, a pound and a half to a gallon of water, while the second more powerful solution is mixed a pound to the gallon.

The solutions should be sprayed on the thistle when it has attained its greatest growth, and before it seeds. By applying the spray and killing the thistle while it is still in small patches, the weed is destroyed and saves the greater expense of combatting larger patches later on.

In Russell township a committee has been appointed under the leadership of Elva Norman, to clean up the entire township. Farmers there are planning the purchase of a power sprayer for use over the entire township.

The Putnam County Farm Bureau is cooperating in the campaign by the sale of aldicide, and also plans the purchase of a power sprayer for loan to farmers whose fields are infested. Farmers here were warned by Mr. Lee to eradicate the thistle on their

Famous Cow Puncher Wit Drives Car Like He Rode Broncho

WILL ROGERS, whose weekly visits to radio are welcomed by a huge audience, has practically deserted the horse for the motor car. This comes as a shock to his old friends from Oklahoma, who visit him on his big estate in California.

Before his monologues became so famous Rogers was noted as one of the finest and wildest horsemen in the West. This is saying a good deal, but Will worked, ate and slept on horseback. In deserting his first love, however, this modern centaur has preserved all his hard-riding characteristics. He drives a motor car as he rode a horse, with two fingers of one hand. His passengers say they would rather ride behind Will on the back of the "buckinest broncho" in the West.

Rogers owns an estate between Beverly Hills and Santa Monica, upon which is a fair sized mountain. A winding path starts close by Rogers' house and goes up this mountain practically to the peak, driving up this winding path in a motor car is one of Rogers' de lights, especially so when he can conduct a guide's tour for a friend who is carefully placed in the back seat of Rogers' two-door sedan.

Three weeks ago, one of these friends was Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. Rogers, while driving with the other hand, at the moment when the automobile is apparently about to drive off the road into infinity, Rogers, knowing the turns as he does the half-way in his own house, suddenly turns the wheel in time to save the car. It is said that Rogers does this with full knowledge of his passenger's fright and always uses the two-door sedan, the doors, of course, opening from the driver's seat.

Florenz Ziegfeld, noted producer of "The Follies," was also one of the recent passengers of Rogers in a mountain climbing expedition. After Rogers had rounded several of the mountain's hair-pin turns, Ziegfeld, sitting in the back seat, is reported to have said, "I will buy one of your lots if you will stop and let me out."
